Call Out Film Series: New Members

Since over three years now a series of film screenings takes place at xart splitta bringing and showing films that are challenging norms in society, that are surprising, inspiring, empowering. Films that make you think and laugh.

With discussions, filmmakers, activists, the audience, and guest curations we curate and organize many different film screenings on anti-discrimination, anti-racist,, experimental, diverse gender and body politics topics and many more (more infos here: <http://www.xartsplitta.net/filmreihe/archiv-vergangene-screenings/>)

Now we're looking for new members and invite you to be part of it and make it happen!! If you are interested in working together on a volunteer basis and support developing an accessible, self-organized, sustainable, independent series of film screenings and possibly other related projects (like DIY filmmaking, editing workshops, queer archive - the format is expandable and flexible) please drop us some lines about yourself.

We'd love to hear more about you like:

- What are your areas of interest?
- What's your personal approach to the topics mentioned above?
- Do you have experience organizing any events or festivals related to film?
- What's your time capacity for the project?
- How do you imagine committing to the project?

Please leave your contacts – we will get back to you soon!

We would like to act as a meeting point for a networking aiming at the creation of new projects within the film screenings series as well as the exchange of ideas and thoughts.
